VANCOUVER, Wash.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Oct. 4, 2024-- ZoomInfo (NASDAQ: ZI), the go-to-market platform to find, acquire, and grow customers, announced that ZoomInfo Copilot has been named a finalist in The 2024 A.I. Awards program, in the AI Implementation of The Year category. The new awards program was launched earlier this year by established cloud computing awards body The Cloud Awards, which recognizes and rewards excellence and innovation in the use or development of cloud artificial intelligence technologies, and machine learning.

ZoomInfo Copilot has transformed the go-to-market process since its launch in May 2024 by delivering cutting-edge AI enhancements for sales professionals. Users report on average a 60% productivity boost, 58% increase in engagement, and nearly 25% more pipeline secured, among other success metrics.

"We are honored that ZoomInfo Copilot has been named a finalist in the AI Implementation of the Year category from The 2024 A.I. Awards," said Dominik Facher, Chief Product Officer for ZoomInfo. "We've made it our mission to help go-to-market teams connect with their buyers and win more. It's exciting to take the leap forward with this wave of AI innovation and see real impact for our customers."

Entries were received from organizations of all sizes worldwide, including North America, across Europe, the Middle East, and APAC.

"Our inaugural program spotlights the incredible innovations taking place in the world of cloud AI all over the globe, and ZoomInfo fully deserves its place amongst this year's outstanding finalists," said James Williams, CEO of The Cloud Awards. "These finalists demonstrate that ingenious AI-driven solutions can emerge from anywhere, from organizations of any size, driving positive change in almost any industry you can think of."

Winners from The A.I. Awards will be announced on Tuesday, Oct. 8, 2024. The shortlist of finalists across all categories can be viewed here.
